sense and sensitivity advances a novel research proposal in the nascent field of formal pragmatics exploring in detail the semantics and pragmatics of focus in natural language discourse the authors develop a new account of focus sensitivity and show that what has hitherto been regarded as a uniform phenomenon in fact results from three different mechanisms the book makes a major contribution to ongoing research in the area of focus sensitivity a field exploring interactions between sound and meaning specifically the dependency some words have on the effects of focus such as she only likes me i e nothing deeper compared to she only likes me i e nobody else discusses the features of the qfc theory quasi association free association and conventional association a new account of focus implying a tripartite typology of focus sensitive expressions presents novel cross linguistic data on focus and focus sensitivity that will be relevant across a range of linguistic sub fields semantics and pragmatics syntax and intonational phonology concludes with a case study of exclusives like only arguing that the entire existing literature has missed crucial generalizations and for the first time explaining the focus sensitivity of these expressions in terms of their meaning and discourse function polarity phenomena have been known to linguists since klima s seminal work on english negation in this monograph giannakidou presents a novel theory of polarity which avoids the empirical and conceptual problems of previous approaches by introducing a notion wider than negation and downward entailment non veridicality the leading idea is that the various polarity phenomena observed in language are manifestations of the dependency of certain expressions i e polarity items to the non veridicality of the context of appearance dependencies to negation or downward entailment emerge as subcases of nonveridicality the non veridical dependency may be positive licensing or negative anti licensing and arises from the sensitivity semantics of polarity items the book is also concerned with the syntactic mapping of the sensitivity dependency it is argued that licensing does not necessarily correspond to a requirement that the licensee be in the scope of the licensor in some cases for instance for the interpretation of negative concord the reverse is required that the licensee takes the licensor in its scope the theory is applied to an extended set of old and new data concerning affective free choice dependencies and mood choice in relative clauses the primary focus is on greek but data from dutch english and to a lesser extend romance and slavic are also considered this monograph investigates a number of central issues in the syntax of adverbs with special reference to greek in the light of kayne s 1994 antisymmetry hypothesis it examines the conditions on the placement of the various adverb types their licensing requirements and their relation to adjectives the author advances an analysis according to which adverbs are licensed as specifiers of functional projections in the clausal domain as such they enter a matching relation with the relevant features of the respective functional head adverbs are either directly merged at the relevant functional projection for instance aspectual and speaker oriented adverbs or alternatively they are moved to this position from the complement domain of the verb for instance manner adverbs furthermore the volume examines the phenomenon of adverb incorporation it is proposed that incorporation is obligatory for those vp internal adverbs which are structurally non complex in chomsky s 1995 terms finally the similarities and differences between adverbs and adjectives clausal and nominal structure are investigated and a number of asymmetries between the two are highlighted
